

What Can You Do to Combat the Opioid Crisis at Work?

The Opioid Crisis Webinar: What Employees Need To Know

Thursday, January 31, 2019

2:00 – 3:00 pm

We are in the midst of an opioid epidemic; 115 Americans die of an overdose every day. The epidemic is being increasingly felt at work, because 75% of those addicted are employed. This impacts productivity and moral, health care costs, and most importantly, coworkers and families lives and wellbeing.

Register today for The Opioid Crisis Webinar: What Employees Need to Know

During this webinar (January 31, 2019 from 2:00 – 3:00 pm), we will provide you with information to help you and your family members stay safe and productive and suggestions for how to support others. Questions to be addressed include: What are the signs of opioid use? How does addiction itself work? What's the impact on one's family? Particular attention will be paid to destigmatizing addiction itself.

On-site Trainings

To schedule training about these topics at your workplace, please contact Michele Grant at 508-650-6829 or Michele.grant@allonehealth.com. The first step towards any change is awareness. Learn how to help your employees.