Richard Heath

Richard Heath is certified instructor traveling the country teaching NCCER crane certification courses which include Boom Truck, Truck Crane and Lattice Boom Cranes. He is also a certified instructor teaching Bucket Truck, Aerial Lift, Mobile elevated work platform and Fork Lift operation.

These courses cover all safety operations and equipment used. His instruction of classes also covers OSHA Certification classes, Mass. Licensing and Mass. Continued Education Classes.

Richard also has extensive experience in the marine industry working on the waterfront and operation of marine travel lifts.

Richard has been a crane operator since 1976, just out of college starting in the sign industry, he was licensed and operated sign cranes, bucket trucks, and aerial lifts. He became an owner operator of his own business in 1982, owning three cranes of various sizes. In 1998 he began operating cranes of all types in the streets of Boston,

During his twenty year career he worked closely with Boom Lifts and Aerial Lift on the high rises of the city. Richard has been teaching with us at Cranes 101 for the past five years and his extensive knowledge of the industry along with his teaching ability have made him one of Cranes 101's top instructors.
